GEN. SCOTT AND THE COMMON COUNCIL.-The military of the city cannot forget the shabby manner in which the Common Council enacted their part on the late occasion of Gen. Scott's reception in our city. It is said by those who were on board the boat which brought the war-worn veteran from Elizabethtown, that there was not so much as a glass of lemonade provided by the committee to quench the thirst of the speakers, to say nothing of other gentlemen who took part in the exercises of the day. The sapient fathers of Gotham, taking their departure from their dining-room at the City Hall, and returning to the same point after a few hours' ab-sence, might not have felt the inconvenience of this mal-arrangement; but we are assured that others did; and, in fact, that after the speechifying, (or before it, we are not certain which,) Gen. S. being thirsty, one of his friends was obliged to leave him and find his way to the bar of the boat, where, for the usual steamboat price, he was enabled to procure a glass of lemonade. Under such favors, the General might with great propriety exclaim, "save me from my friends."

PUBLIC HEALTH.-We give, in another column, an abridged feport of the cause of John L. Brower and others, on behalf of the citizens of the Fifth ward, vs. The Mayor, &c., and Commissioners of Emigration, argued on Thursday last, before Mr. Justice Hurlbut, in the Supreme Court, by which it will be seen that the defendants rely on their strictly legal and technical rights to deal with corporation property as they please, regardless of any consequences that may follow; while, on the other hand, their adversaries showed, not only by arguments, but by facts, that the measure is fraught with the most imminent danger to the health of the citizens, if persevered in. Such is the language used by the medical gentlemen whose certificates were read on the argument.

Charge of Grand Larceny.—Captain Magnes, of the 6th ward police, and efficer Whalen, arrested yesterday a tall yeliow fellow calling himself Bill Houstoun, an old thief, on a charge of stealing a gold patent lever watch, valued at $100, the property of Mr Wm. H. Berlow, residing at No. 69 Walnut st. The watch, it seems, was left to be cleaned at S. D. Rockwell's store, No. 110½ Cherry st., and was stolen from that store on Wednesday last, and on the arrest of this negro the watch was found in his pocket. The accused is likewise charged with stealing two dozen penknives from Ne. 19 Maiden Lane, valued at $10, the property of Dwight B. Fuiler. Justice Lathrop committed him for trial on both charges.

Attempt to Pick a Pocket—Officer Smith, of the 15th ward, arrested on Friday night, at Niblo's, at the great whig meeting, a fellow calling himself George Brown, alias Bob Mitchell, on a charge of attempting to pick the pocket of Mr. Conklin Smith, a resident of Brooklyn He was conveyed before Justice McGrath, and locked up for a further hearing.

Burglary.—Ex-constable Joseph, and officer Jeffrey, of the 10th ward, arrested yesterday, a notorious thief, called John Fry, alias "Swiverley," on a charge of entering the dwelling-house, No. 99 First street, with a false key, carrying off from the premises five silk dresses valued at $54, the property of Mrs. Mary J. McDonald. The property was recovered, and Justice Lathrop committed him to the Tombs for trial. He also stands charged with committing three other felonies.

charged with committing three other felonies.

A Prompt Arrest.—Officer Parmelee, one of the officers of the Fifth ward police, arrested, yesterday, a black woman, called Mary Ann Simmons, on a charge of stealing a quantity of female wearing apparel, together with some jewelry, valued in all at over $100, the property of Mr. John Fallier, residing at No. 206 South Third street, Williamsburgh. It seems, this black woman was a servant of Mr. Pallier, and yesterday suddenly left the house, when the property was missing. Information was given at onne to the above officer, who in a short time discovered her whereabouts, and arrested her in Minetta street. The property has been all recovered from the pawnbrokers, and other places where it had been deposited by the accused. She will be sent over to Williamsburgh for trial.

Seduction and Abduction.—On Tuesday last quite an effecting seene took place in Broadway, near the City Hotel, by the appearance of a respectable looking young girl lying on the side walk, evidently in a hysterical fit; she fell directly in front of a fashionable Italian hair dresser, who very kindly stepped out and rendered every assistance possible, by applying some of his best restoratives to the nostrils of the young woman, in order to bring her to. A large crowd immediately collected, and it was found necessary to remove her across the street to a room, where medical aid was procured, and the unfortunate young woman restored somewhat to her senses. Officer Stokely, attracted by the crowd, stepped in, when she related the cause of her nervous state of excitement as follows:—She said her name was Mary Q., and that a young Spanlard became acquainted with her in Philadelphia, where she resided, and that under promise of marriage he succeeded in leading her from the paths of virtue. He also mysteriously abducted her from her friends, and brought her to New York, conveying her at once to a disreputable house, and there left her. She soon discovered from the inmates of the premises the awful situation she was placed in, and feeling heart-broken, and deceived by the man she took to be her only guardian and protector, she sailied forth into the streets; not knowing where to go nor what to do; nor caring what became of her. It was under this state of excitement, which, working upon her broken spirits, completely overpowered her system, that the poor girl was found as above described. After she was sufficiently restored, the officer procured a carriage and removed her to the city rison, where she was placed under the kind and tender charge of Mr. Edmonds, the keeper, who is proverbial for his kind heart and good feelings, in endeavoring to res

Mr. Editor:

An article appeared in your paper of yesterday, under the head of "Police Intelligence," unjustly reflecting on the subscriber. From its terms, it would appear that the subscriber was fined by the Mayor, for detaining emigrant luggage, for the non-payment of an overcharge of board. The facts of the case which were proven before Justice Lothrop, and not the Mayor, did not show or tend to establish that the undersigned had charged more than the contract price for board, less than one-half that amount being, in fact, all that was received. It was also proven that the baggage was delivered up to the owner before a warrant was issued, notwithstanding which, Justice Lothrop thought it his duty (upon what construction of the statute the undersigned is ignorant) to impose a fine. It also appeared before any complaint was made, that the complainants were requested to take away their baggage, and were informed that the undersigned would not be responsible for it if they allowed it to remain.

EDWARD SIMPSON, MANAGER OF THE PARK THEATRE -This gentleman, who has performed on the boards of this theatre since 1800, and been a lessee since 1816, has lost his position as manager, and it has passed into other hands. It was necessary that the house, in order to compete with the other great establishments in the city, should be remodelled and enlarged, as well as wear a more splendid dress. As the proprietors would not incur that expenditure, a lessee must be found, with means and enterprise, that would. Mr. Simpson, from heavy pecuniary losses, was unable to command those means. He was, after years of labor and profitable results to these proprietors, thrown aside. He is now to receive a small compensation, for services, from Mr. Hamblin, the pre-ent lessee, should he require them. Mr. Simpson is not only, streitened in his circumstances, but. as we learn, he is very poor—nay, worse than poor, for he is in debt, and exceedingly embarrassed in his pecuniary affairs. Can nothing be done for him?—for one who has so long and so faithfully served the public, and enabled us to see and enjoy the galaxy of talent from the old world, which his enterprise and discrimination brought, from time to time, to our shores—can nothing, we say, be done for him? One of our extemporaries suggests a benefit. With our wealth, enterprise, love of the drama, and well directed taste, and our well known public sympathies, cannot we get up a benefit, now, or in the fall, that will tell—for an actor, a manager, who has grown grey and poor, both health and spirit worn, in the service of the American stage, whose standard he has served to elevate—whose boards, for so many years, to embellish and adorn!

FARK THEATRE.—The little Viennoise dancers closed the proprietors would not incur that expenditure, PARK THEATRE.—The little Viennoise dancers closed their performances at this house, yesterday. They performed in the afternoon as well as in the evening. At the first performance there was a very numerous audience; the sudden rain which came on in the eveming, caused the house to be rather thinly attended. We have so frequently expressed our admiration of this farly band of dancers, that now it is unnecessary for us to say more on the subject. They are undoubtedly the most perfectly drilled and elegant corps of danseuses, that have ever been got together, and their whole progress throughout the Union, has been a most successful one. To-morrow creating will be ticket might, and an interesting one at the Park, on many accounts; it will be the last evening of Mr. Simpson's management, and the following card, which is inserted in the bills of the day, tells its own story: "Mr. Simpson, in quitting the management of the Park Theatre, which he has held for 38 years as stage and acting manager, begs leave respectfully to return his sincere thanks to his friends and the public in general, for kind patronage during that long period." Well, and so Old Drury will at length pass from under his control. The profession may perhaps exclaim in Shakspeare's words, "we could have better spared a better man." Be that as it may, the Park will come out shortly in a new dress and under new hands, and we trust that its pristing grandeur and success will then be restored.

BOWERY THEATRE.—The continued illness of Mr. Scott prevented him from appearing last evening; and ning, caused the house to be rather thinly attended.

Scott prevented him from appearing last evening; and Mr. Marshall again took his place as Hamlet. The house was tolerably well filled, and the performance was much applauded. Mr. M is a very attentive and was much applauded. Mr. M is a very attentive and excellent actor, and is a deserved favorite of the Bowers. His performance of Hamlet was marked with great accuracy, and considerable originality. We think that he is fully capable of sustaining himself in the higher walks of the drama; and we hope hereafter to see more of him in these characters. As Mr. Scott continues sick he has necessarily had to retire temporarily from his engagement; in the meantime the management will not let things slacken, but intend presenting some of their best dramas; to morrow evening, for instance. "Ehrenstein," that magnificently got up spectacle, will be played in the same style, as it was a few weeks ago. The comedy of the "Deserter" and, the drama of "Hofer," will make up the remainder of the bill.

fine business last week. Night after night, has it been crowded; and on no occasion has the slightest falling off been perceptible. A most judicious admixture of farce, melo-drama, and the immortal "New York as it is," serve to keep up the excitement Chanfrau is under engagement to appear in Boston, on the 12th inst; therefore, "New York as it is" can be played for one week more, only; and we expect it will be the most crowded week the Chatham has yet known.

BROADWAY THEATES.—Mr. Anderson took his farewell benefit last night at the above theatre. The house was crowded densely on this occasion, from top to bottom. He selected "Macbeth" for his last appearance—not we think the happiest choice; for there are many other piecees in which he performs, which are calculated to produce and to leave on the mind a more favorable impressions of his talents. Not that we deny Mr. Anderson the credit of being much more than a common actor—the great favor he has received from the public, and the houses he has drawn, are sufficient proof of that—but we cannot agree with those who are disposed to range him in the class of the Garricks, the Cookes, and the Keans, men who seemed specially born to represent and peronify the great conceptions which Shakspeare alone was capable of creating. There is required in order to represent well the characters of the creat poet, an impulsive spontaneous feeling of mature, which we think Mr. A. does not fully possess. He is a great artist—we deny not that; but altogether there is more of the artificial than of the natural in his conceptions and impersonations. Throughout the whole play, which we witnessed last night, we may truly say, that while there was consummate art, an evidence of profound and careful study, a rare propriety of gesture, and a perfect attention to rules, there was not, throughout the whole, one genuine touch of nature—of that kind of unpremeditated feeling, which rushes at once both upon the actor and the audience, which involuntarily carries them both away in its impulse and feeling, and make both parties forget entirely for the moment that one party is acting, and the other looking on. We only say this from a strict regard to truth, and very far from any unkind feeling. Mr. Anderson was rapturously and loudly applauded, and he really deserved to be so, for understood as we have explained it, his acting was truly beautiful, and a masterpiece of art and pearance—not we think the happiest choice; for there far from any unkind feeling. Mr. Anderson was rapturously and loudly applauded, and he really deserved to be so, for understood as we have explained it, his acting was truly beautiful, and a masterpiece of art and study. When the play was over (and by the by, Mr. Anderson seemed to have reserved his best for the last, for the last scene with Macduff was exquisitely beautiful), leud and repeated calls summoned him before the curtain. He shortly appeared, and was greeted with a shower of beautiful bouquets, and with such loud tokens of favor and approbation as we never saw exceeded. Evidently affected with such ardent demonstrations of favor, Mr. Anderson bade farewell to the audience in the following words, pronounced with a feeling, and in a manner, which did him credit:—

Laous ann Gentlemen.—Never until the present moment did tever feel it to be panful to receive such kind acknowledgments. Your kindness has placed a burden upon me, toe heavy for my heart to bear. Proud as I am to obey your fastering summons, I feel that if you had given me less convincing proofs of your kindness, I should have been more capable of re-ponding to it. Circumstances compel me to the performance of a double duty—I must thank you, and I must bid you a sien. I feel conscious of my inability to give expression to the feelings of gratitude which fill me. It is difficult for me without emotion to pronounce that fearful word, "Farewell." Phantoms of the mind and thought, recollections of your favor, fil around me, which render it impossible for me to do justice to my feelings. If I should attempt to thank you for all the proofs I have received of your kindness, the ske would be too great, and more than I sould accomplish. Suffice it, then, to say that it is now four years ago since I first came an humble stranger before you to seek for your approbation and solicit your favor as an actor and as a man, and now I am about to bid you farewell, and it probably may be forever. The circumstances which control us are not in our own power, but i

piece of intelligence to our readers, that this delight ful place of amusement will be open for the summer season to-morrow evening. During the winter re-cess, the interior has been thoroughly renovated and improved. The great difficulty of hearing, which was so generally remarked last season, and which acted as a drawback to the attractions of the place, has been completely obviated. The dome has been removed, and in lieu of it, a sounding board has been affixed, which will enable the audience in the most distant parts of the interior to hear every word that is spoken on the stage. The stage, too, has been remodelled and enlarged. Last season it was objected that persons sitting close to it could not see all that was going on. The case is now different. It has been lowered two feet, and that difficulty is likewise overcome. The whole of the interior has been redecorated, repainted, and refurnished; in fine, every alteration which experience has suggested and the comfort of the patrons required, has been effected in the most liberal manner, without regard to expense. This delightful place is pre-eminent for its attractions during the warm weather; and we doubt not that the enterprise and liberality of the managers, in studying and providing for the comfort and pleasure of their patrons, will be liberally compensated. The amusements this season will be vaudeville and light comedy in all their ramifications. An extensive and capable company have been engaged, at the head of which is Mr. Holland, one of the most efficient directors in that line in the United States; and the orchestra will be complete and perfect in all its appointments. The company embraces several male and female performers of celebrity, and who are great favorites with the public, it will open to-morrow evening, and we perceive that Madame Augusta will commence the campaign. This lady is one of the most beautiful and perfect donascuss that ever appeared in New York, not excepting the world renowned Fanny Elssler. Herform is cast in the same mould as that of Fower's Greek Slave, and her motions are as chaste and graceful as would be those of that statue, if it were warmed by the fire of frometheus, and rendered capable of performing on the light and improved. The great difficulty of hearing, which was so generally remarked last season, and Every one has seen, or at least heard, of the splendor of the Opera House, its crimson silk velvet cushions, magnificent chandelier, unsurpassable scenery, rich decorations, &c. All this will be now at the service of the public, and an excellent company to boot, who will perform opera, ballet, vaudeville, comedy, &c. The Viennoise danseuses are also engaged, and will play their very last engagement, prior to returning to Europe, at Niblo's, during the coming week. Mr. Chippendale, that old favorite of the public, is the acting manager, and John Sefton the stage manager. Mr. Walcott, Mrs. Maeder, and other favorites, are also engaged, so that, altogether, a brilliant time may be expected Suicide.—The coroner held an inquest yesterday, at No. 128 liestor street, on the body of John Scheffmyer, a shoemaker by trade, and a native of Germany, aged by years, who came to his death in consequence of the years, who came to his death in consequence of the years, who came to his death in consequence of the years, who came to his death in consequence of the years, who came to his death in consequence of the years from the evidence of his son, that the deceased has been deranged in mind for the hast four weeks, and on Friday afternoon he locked himself in the bed room, by which act supplied on the bed, asping for breath, his hand all bloody from a wound that was bleeding profusely from his neck, and the bloody shoemaker's knife was lying close at hand. Medical aid was procured, and the wound dressed, the deceased being conscious of what he had done, and spoke about his family, and said it was a shame. He lingered for about five hours, when he expired from the effects of irritation and exhaustion. The jury rendered a verdict, that the deceased came to his death by suicide, by cutting his throat with a knife while insane.

recent decision of the Supreme Court, the Commissioner has determined to retain Dr. J. S. Hyati in the Alms House Department. The acknowledged efficiency of Dr. Hyatt, and his intimate acquaintance with all the details connected with the business transactions of the Department, books, accounts, &c., have induced the Commissioner to retain him, as an aid, without salary from the corporation. As a medical man, Dr. H has also rendered and will continue to give his professional services, as heretofore, gratuitously. This will completely relieve the new incumbent, Mr. Corwin, from the necessity of attending to any duties connected with the office, which, to him, will therefore turn out a perfect sinceure. We also understand, that the Hon. Mr. Leonard, the Commissioner, will not sign the usual certificate to entitle the new clerk to receive his salary, for doing nothing. This is about the most spirited political move we have as yet seen in connection with the corporation of this city. We should like to see the many officials in the other departments follow the course pursued by Dr. Hyatt. We also understand that Joshua Phillips, Esq., the contract clerk of the department, will be retained upon similar grounds. This step will be of some relief to the city treasury, and canable the Commissioner, amid the many conflicting duties of his position, to be of still further service to his constituents, on the scorce of economy and "ficiency, and will further enable him to carry out those measures of reform to which he has been pledged by the voters of this city, who have independently elected him to office.

DISTRESSING OCCURRENCE—About three o'clock yesterday afternoon, Edward Wisely, a blacksmith, and his sister, Margaret Wisely, were burned in the most shocking manner, by the accidental ignition and explosion of some powder and other materials, which they were using in the manufacture of fireworks, in the rear premises of No. 130 Auliberry street. The explosion tore out the whole side of the building, and set fire to the p municated to them, might have caused a serious loss of life.

Accidental Drowning.—The coroner likewise held an inquest at the 9th ward station house, on the body of an unknown man, about 27 years of age, who was found in the river at the foot of Troy street. It appeared from the evidence of Charles Smith, that a noise was heard by him like a man failing into the water, while he, with some others, were sitting on the side of a boat; he immediately pulled the boat to where heard the noise, and there sawa hat floating on the surface of the water. Some short time afterwards, Thomas Kyle grappled on the botton of the river, and dragged up the lifeless body of the deceased. The jury rendered a verdict that "the deceased came to his death by drowning."

Rushe's tobacco store; Reuben Rice's chair manufactory; Charles Sholl's tailor shop, together with the following private residences:—Daniel Keiper's, Mr. Keiper's, Peter Hobver's and granary, Joshua Hain's, Mrs. Heckman's, Dr. C. H. Martin's, Joseph F. Newhart's, Mrs. Catharine Groff's, Dreshyr & Woodring's and Mrs. Moyer's, with a large number of stables and outhouses, were burned down. The progress of the fire was arrested at about five o'clock. The loss is immense. The fire spread so rapidly that but very little of the store goods and other moveables were saved. The loss must at least be about $250,000. The stable where the fire originated is supposed to have been set on fire by boys playing in it with segars and fire crackers. About one-third of the property destroyed is said to be covered by insurance. Upwards of forty families were thrown out of their homes.—Phila. Inquirer.

THE WHALE FISHERY.—The accounts from the Kamschatka fleet of whalers are said to be bad.—Upwards of fifty vessels are reported as having done nothing. There have been several severe shocks of carthquakes felt at sea in that region, which are supposed to have frightened the whales off their usual reeding grounds.

The Temple of Mount Morris, Harlem day will be a jubice at one of the most pictures; us and subin locations to be found in any country. On an elevation higher that any part of the island, is Mount Morris, commanding a view of the High Bridge, Long Island Sound, Staten Island, Hudson River, Palisados, &c., an Observatory on the roof, and accommodation for ladies and gentlemen, under the management of Mr and Mrs. Van Nostrand.

n's Mammoth Panorama of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, we e told, will arrive here during the present week. The Baltimore sea is loud in its praises of this Herculean work of art. It will placed on exhibition at the Apollo Rooms, 410 Broadway, im-ediately after its arrival.

COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS. MONEY MARKET.

There was quite an excitement in the street to-day The announcement made by telegraph that the ratification of the Treaty was beyond a doubt or question had a very favorable influence upon prices, and the transactions were to some extent at an advance. At the first board, Long Island improved 1/2 per cent, Har lem ¼. Norwich and Worcester 2, Canton ¼, Farmers' Loan ¼. Mohawk 2, Morris Canal ¼, Eric R. R. (old) 2, Erie scrip 1%. North American Trust 1, Treasury Notes %. Illinois funded %. Reading R. R. closed at prices current yesterday. Soon after the adjournment of the first board, news was received that the Treaty had been ratified, when Treasury Notes sold at 103% 103%, being an advance of % 2% per cent on prices current at the board.

Saturday, June 3_6 P. M.

A new counterfeit $100 note, on the Western Bank of Baltimore, has just made its appearance, of which the following is a correct description:—Vignette in centre, two female figures, one of whom is pointing to a train of cars passing over a bridge, beneath which is a canal boat; on the right hand margin a medallion head of a Roman, and on the left hand margin a head of Washington. The paper is very white, and the note is signed Thos. Spicer, Jr., Cashier; C. Brooks, President; dated March 4, 1846; letter A, No. 6. The note is much broader, and wholly unlike the genuine in every particular: which has for its centre vignette a figure of commerce, with an eagle and shield; on the left hand margin a city with steeples, and a sloop on the foreground; and on the right a female figure and male bust-"the Western Bank of Baltimore," in large letters, in a semi-circle round the top-and two large G's on either side of the vignette. The bank has n issues of the 4th of March, 1846.

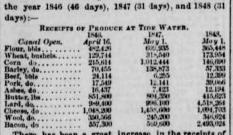

The aggregate quantity of some of the leading arti cles left at tide water from the commencement of navigation to the 1st of June, is as follows:-

| RECEIPTS OF BREADSTUFFS AT TIDE WATER. | Flour, bbt. | Wheet, bu. | Corn. bu. | Barley. | 1847 ... | 001,935 | 318,540 | 1,012,444 | 138,973 | 1848 ... | 365,448 | 153,746 | 146,690 | 67,333 | | Decrease,244,487 | 164,794 | 865,754 | 81,540 | 81,540 By reducing the wheat to flour, the quantity of the latter left at tide water this year, compared with the corresponding period last year, shows a decrease equal to 277,446 bbls, of flour. The receipts of corn thus far are less by 865,754 than it was last year up to this time, and 68.924 bushels less than it was in 1846. There has also been a large failing off in barley; the receipts, when compared with less than they were during the same period in 1846. In provisions generally there has been a considerable inprincipal articles of produce left at tide water from the commencement of navigation to the 1st of June, during last year, show a decrease of 81,540 bushels, and 13,122

There has been a great increase in the receipts of beef and pork, ashes, lard, wool, and bacon; but every description of breadstuffs has fallen off largely.

The importations at Buffalo from the west, via the lake, exhibit about the same variations as the receipts at tide water. The decrease in breadstuffs was antici-

These receipts do not, however, cover the entire lake imports, as they do not include the exports from Silver Creek, Dunkirk, Barcelona, &c These places, being in the district of Buffalo, are not reported. We have no doubt but that the returns for the season will show a very great decrease in the receipts of breadstuffs at tide water; but the increase in other articles, and the in creased amount of merchandise transported from tide water, will prevent a corresponding decrease in the ca-

M. R. EDITOR—I OCCASIONALLY TRAVEL IN SEAPCE of comfort, (the natural consequence of the life of single blesses/neas that I am doomed to.) In my wanderings, I stumbled upon the homse of Measrs, Hanfield & Hoefts, lately established at Williamsburgh, Long Island, about 200 yards south of the landing of the steamboats, which constantly ply between Peek Slip in this city, and Williamsburg. The location is a delightful one, commanding a fine view of the East River, with splendid and extensive grounds, attached—billiard room and ten pin alleys for those wito prefer that manily, athletic, and health conducing amusement. The proprietors are smiable, accommedating, and contreous; they appear to be entirely forgetful of themselves, in their detries to make their guests happy and comfortable. The accommodations for families are extensive. Alas! I much fear, Mr. Editor, that I shall be compelled to abandon the place in consequence of the rush that will be made on it by families, to the great annoyance of bachelors. At the same time, I would recommend all bachelors to visit, to witness the happiness of those who have entered into the married state. The inducements are too great to be resisted. Success to the proprietors—they are deserving of it. VIATOR.

THE YELLOW OR CHESTER SPRINGS, EXTENSIVELY Enlarged, and Grounds improved.—This well known place for summer resort is now open for the reception of visitors.
